SPACE RESERVED FOR PRESIDENT

High Ground in Marine Camp Here Allotted to President Harding And Party.

EXECUTIVE IS EXPECTED

Schedule For Hike of Marines to Camp Here, Indicates Their Arrival on June 26.

Lieutenant Brady, of the United States Marines, Thursday afternoon laid out the camp the brigades of "devil dogs" will occupy while in Gettysburg from June 26 to July 6. Prominent in the blue print of the camp is the section reserved for President Harding and party. No public announcement has been made of the coming of the chief executive, but it is generally understood among the Marines, that the President will be here, probably on July 3 and 4, to witness the staging of Pickett's Charge as it was fought fifty nine years ago and as it would be fought today. There are to be between twenty and thirty tents in the section allotted to the President. It is located along Confederate avenue north of the Lee monument and is so situated on high ground that the President will be able to see Pickett's Charge from beginning to end without leaving his camp.

The main camp of the Marines will be located on the ground where Pickett's men formed for the famous charge. It will be located approximately fifty yards east of Lee's monument. Adjoining the main camp, on its left, will be the hospital unit and to the left of the hospital men, will be the Engineer and Signal corps.

Further to the left will be located the Headquarters Company and adjoining that will be the camp assigned to President Harding and his party. East of the main camp will be situated the aviation and artillery sections. The aviation field is north of this section of the camp. There will be twenty five airplanes of different types and sizes there, as well as one balloon.

On June 19, the detachment of Marines numbering more than 5,000 men will leave Quantico, Virginia, by boat for Washington. From the national capital they will hike to Gettysburg. While in Washington, they will camp at Potomac Park. On June 20 the men will camp at a point near the Georgetown Preparatory School, near Washington. The next night they will be near Gaithersburg. On June 23, the party will have reached Ridgeville, Maryland. The 24th will find them at the Frederick Fair Grounds. The next night they will camp one mile from Thurmont and on June 26th they are scheduled to arrive in Gettysburg to remain until July 6. On the return trip they will follow the same route.

AVERAGE AGE OF VETERANS WAS 79

Veterans of Ninth Pennsylvania Cavalry Hold Fifty-Third Reunion Here.

The fifty-third annual reunion of the remaining veterans of the Ninth Pennsylvania Volunteer Cavalry of the Civil War, was brought to a close here Thursday afternoon with the re-election of all officers who served the past year. They were: B. F. Eisenburg, of Huntingdon, president; H. C. Shenk, of Lancaster, secretary, and H. K. Landis, of Lancaster, treasurer.

Twelve companies comprised the Ninth Cavalry which was recruited in this state late in the war. Most of the men saw action in the western campaigns of the Union forces. The Ninth Cavalry also bears the distinction of being the only Pennsylvania cavalry unit to participate in Sherman's march to the sea.

Fourteen veterans of the twelve companies were present at the one-day reunion Thursday. Every one of the twelve companies comprising the regiment was represented. The average age of the representatives at the reunion was 79 years. They made the Hoffman Hotel their headquarters during the day.

During the morning, the veterans toured the battlefield. This was the second reunion of this regiment in Gettysburg. The former one being held in June 1904. In the afternoon, election of officers was held and Harrisburg was also voted as the place at which the reunion would be held next year on the second Tuesday in June.

TO ADVERTISE MARINES

Town Will Contribute To Newspaper Campaign.

Gettysburg is to get wide publicity during the next two weeks through the columns of the press in eastern cities, it was decided Thursday afternoon at an informal meeting of a group of Chambersburg men and members of the Chamber of Commerce here. It is planned to advertise the staging of Pickett's Charge on July 3 and 4 in eight of the leading newspapers in New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore, Washington, Pittsburgh, Cleveland and Cincinnati.

At the last meeting of the Chamber of Commerce, the spending of a sum for advertising the Marine manoeuvres was authorized. Chambersburg has offered to equal the amount Gettysburg spends, believing the advertising will bring heavier traffic to the Lincoln Highway.

Address to be Made by the Rev. H. C. Bergstresser.

The annual Memorial Service of Gettys Lodge No. 124, Independent Order Odd Fellows will be held on Sunday, the feature of the exercises being an address by the Rev. H. C. Bergstresser, pastor of the Lutheran church at Littlestown. The local lodge has issued invitations to every lodge of Odd Fellows in the county to attend this service.

It is planned to march to Evergreen Cemetery at 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon, where the graves of deceased members will be decorated. Following this ceremony, the exercises will be held, when the principal address will be made by the Rev. Mr. Bergstresser.

LEGION TO BRING CARNIVAL HERE

Signs Contract For Miniature Circus During Marine Encampment.

SHOW HERE TWO WEEKS

Location Not Definitely Decided But Will Probably be Lot Opposite Meade Building on Springs Avenue.

At a somewhat stormy session of the Albert Lentz American Legion post Thursday evening, the members voted to sign the contract bringing the Lew Dufour shows to Gettysburg from June 26 to July 8. Numerous objections to clauses in the contract with the show company caused debate among the members for almost two hours. It was after a second motion to sign the agreement, the members gave their assent. The first motion for acceptance of the contract was lost in debate.

E. H. Stanley, advance agent and general manager of the shows, was present at the meeting and outlined the nature and extent of the miniature circus. According to Mr. Stanley, the carnival consists of twelve shows and five riding devices. None of the side shows, he said, are of an indecent or immoral nature and everyone was fit for women and children to witness. In addition, Mr. Stanley declared that the show management allowed no gambling devices on its premises.

A clause in the contract gives the Legion power to close all shows not considered decent and moral as well as stop all attempts at gambling. Proof of the high character of the shows, was a recommendation President Harding gave them when they exhibited in Washington last spring, which Mr. Stanley showed the Legionnaires.

The contract which the post has with the Dufour shows makes it about impossible to lose money. The Legion, which under the contract takes care of all of the overhead expenses of the show, has already been guaranteed $600. In addition, fifteen per cent of the gross receipts of all shows and riding devices is turned over to the Legion, daily.

Much discussion centered about the best place to locate the shows during their two-weeks' stay. A lot on Springs avenue, just opposite the Meade building, was considered the most suitable place to pitch the tents. Negotiations are under way for the rental of this land for two weeks. Other sites contemplated were part of the Playground and a lot along the Emmitsburg road. It is the purpose of those in charge to have the show located where it will (Continued on Sixth Page)

DORMITORY AT HOME DEDICATED

Many Lutherans Attend Exercises at Tressler Orphans Home, Loysville.

The West Pennsylvania Synod Junior Dormitory, of the Tressler Orphans' Home at Loysville, gift of the Synod to the school as testimony to the work done by the home for its members, was dedicated Thursday morning, at 11 o'clock, in the presence of approximately 5,000 Lutherans from all parts of Pennsylvania.

Visitors' Day, which annually brings thousands of the denomination to Loysville, was celebrated by the dedicatory exercises and doubly so by the announcement Thursday morning that Mrs. Vera Stott Cushman, granddaughter of Colonel John Tressler, the founder of the school, had given 200 acres of land in memory of her mother, Mrs. Annie Tressler Stott. This ground, which is adjacent to the school property on the west side, and is valued at $15,000, will enable the school to extend its campus and increase its power for work.

The Rev. Dr. A. E. Wagner, of Gettysburg, presided as chairman of the building committee, which had charge of the erection of the new dormitory. Twenty children, under six years of age, are to be housed in the building, which will assist the Kunkel Memorial Nursery, given by the family of the late Charles A. Kunkel. The dormitory cost more than $30,000 and is a three-story brick building with the most modern equipment. It will be occupied immediately. Located on the west side of the campus near the Kunkel Nursery, it will be of great aid in the administration of that building.

The Rev. Dr. Wagner opened the exercises. The Rev. George E. Bowersox, of Shrewsbury, pronounced the invocation, and there were several selections by the boys' band of the Home. The Rev. Albert O. Mullen, of Spring Grove, made the dedicatory address. He presented the keys to the Rev. A. H. Spangler, of Yeagertown, president of the Board of trustees. The benediction was pronounced by the Rev. Dr. Wagner.

Following the exercises the thousands of visitors were taken through the building and on a general inspection tour of the school.

OPPORTUNITY IN THE NEW SYSTEM

Dr. Baldy Explains Advantages to be Derived From State Caring For Insane.

In an address before the Carlisle Chamber of Commerce, Dr. J. M. Baldy, Commissioner of the State Public Welfare Department, dispelled the belief that the withdrawal of insane persons from the county hospitals to State institutions was a tragedy and that the taxpayers would be burdened with further expenses. Cumberland county has suffered the same fate as Adams, in having the license of the county home, to care for insane patients, revoked. In that case, the conditions are somewhat different from those existing in this county, as a new $100,000 county home is nearing completion there.

"Fifty cents a week on each inmate will be saved," Dr. Baldy pointed out. "The State pays the county $2 for the maintenance of each insane person. The actual cost is $5.50, leaving $3.50 to be paid by the county. When the patients are all located in State asylums the highest estimated cost will be $3 for each one."

"Cumberland's opportunity lies in the fact that there is a wide movement to segregate the various types of insanity. This is impossible under the existing conditions but immediately upon the removal of the patients, it will be possible for the county to efficiently care for epileptics and minor cases which have been hitherto practically neglected."

Furthermore, the Commissioner said, insane persons would be placed (Continued on Sixth Page)

The commencement exercises start with the baccalaureate sermon to the graduates on Sunday morning, in College Lutheran church, when the sermon will be delivered by the Rev. G. U. Wenner, D. D., of New York city. At the evening service in that church the alumni sermon will be delivered by the Rev. William F. Fischer, D. D., of Shamokin, a graduate of college in the class of 1872.

Among them are 1882, 1912, 1917, 1919 and 1921. The Class Day exercises will be held on the campus at 10 o'clock in the morning.

One of the most interesting events on the entire program will be the dedication of the Robert Weidensall Y. M. C. A. building, which has recently been completed on the campus. The principal speaker at these exercises will be Dr. Edgar Fahs Smith, provost emeritus of the University of Pennsylvania and a graduate of College in the class of 1874. This building is a gift of the Women's League of Gettysburg College and with the furnishings, cost $80,000. It is said to be the largest and best equipped college building used exclusively for college Y. M. C. A. work in this section of the country.

The graduating exercises will be held in Brua Chapel, Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock when the Commencement address will be delivered by M. W. Ireland, Surgeon General of the United States Army, of Washington. General Ireland, on this same occasion, will receive the honorary degree of Doctor of Laws from Gettysburg College.

Dr. Smith will also speak at the Alumni Collation dinner to be held at noon Wednesday, June 14, in Gettysburg Academy. Among the other speakers at the collation dinner will be J. A. W. Haas, president of Muhlenberg College and Mrs. George N. Lauffer, of Altoona.

It was also announced today that the Collation will be free only to alumni, former students, members of the graduating class, honorary degree guests, trustees of the College and out-of-town members of the Woman's League.

PRETTY WEDDING AT BRIDE'S HOME

Luther M. Lady, Arendtsville, Wed at Parkersford Thursday Noon.

A pretty wedding was solemnized at the home of the bride, Thursday, June 8, at high noon, in the presence of the immediate families and a few friends when Miss S. Ethel Pennypacker, of Parkersford, Chester county, and Luther M. Lady, of Arendtsville, were united in marriage by the Rev. A. M. Dixon. The ring ceremony was used. Mr. Lady is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Hiram C. Lady, of Arendtsville.

The bride wore a gown of white satin crepe and carried a corsage bouquet of bride's roses and lilies of the valley. The bridesmaid was Miss Edith Pennypacker, sister of the bride. The room in which the ceremony took place was decorated with a profusion of pink and white roses.

A wedding luncheon followed the marriage, after which Mr. and Mrs. Lady left on a ten-day wedding trip through eastern Pennsylvania.

At the present time he is county superintendent of the Young People's societies and is also county musical director of that organization.

Mr. Lady is a veteran of the world war. He enlisted April 26, 1918, at Camp Meade and was assigned to the 154th Depot Brigade, but later transferred to the Officers' Training School, Camp Taylor, from which he was commissioned a second lieutenant on November 26, 1918. He was discharged from the army at Camp Taylor, the next day, November 27, 1918.

SEEK FRIENDLY CANDIDATES

(By Associated Press) Cincinnati, June 9.—Congress and state legislatures generally were assailed today as enemies of organized labor by a resolution calling for a non-partisan political campaign this fall to elect candidates friendly to labor, which was adopted unanimously at the annual meeting of the metal trades unions of the American Federation of Labor.

President James O'Connell, of the department, was directed by the delegates to visit congressional districts whose representatives were termed antagonistic to the metal trade workers, and also authorized him to participate actively in the state campaign.

EXTOLS ACTION OF WASHINGTON

President Harding Makes Address at Monument to First President at Princeton.

UNVEILED BY DESCENDANT

Baird Stockton, 3d, a Descendant of One of Signers of Declaration of Independence Drew Away Flag.

(By Associated Press) Princeton, June 9.—President Harding reached here today at 1 p. m. to dedicate the Princeton Battle monument after traveling across country by motor from Summerville, New Jersey, with his party.

Behind a squadron of cavalry and over a road flanked by artillery, delivering the 21-gun presidential salute, the president was taken directly to the monument speaking stand.

Baird Stockton, 3rd, a descendant of a Declaration of Independence signer, drew away the great flag which draped the McMonney statue of George Washington leading the continental armies in the Princeton-Trenton campaign against the British. There were brief preliminary exercises in the dedication ceremony.

The brilliance of General Washington in action and the devotion of his followers under great privation, were extolled by President Harding in his address at the dedication.

The memorial was fitting to the hero and heroism of that day, he declared adding that "we bring and lay at its foot, the laurel wreath which gratitude and patriotic sentiment will always dedicate to those who bore the grief and burden of the conflict."

The President turned from his set speech and referred to the ceremonies here. "I have seen two things new to my experience here today. One was the bringing forward of the colors representing the thirteen states, which were blended into one supreme banner of America, our dear Old Glory," the audience cheered. "And the other" the President continued "was the sight of the Philadelphia Guards and the Fifth Maryland Infantry, who have linked us here with the great achievements of the past."

The crowd rushed forward to the base of the monument where opportunity was given to shake the President's hand. He was taken to a luncheon engagement at the home of Dr. Baird Stockton, in Princeton, where he prepared for the reception of an honorary degree from Princeton University.

STOCK REPORT

(By Associated Press) New York, June 9.—The three per cent opening rate for call money evidently offered little incentive to traders on either side of the stock market this morning. Business during the morning was slight and more substantial changes were confined to the obscure issues. Moderate offerings of Canadian Pacific, Rutland Preferred and Norfolk and Southern, caused irregularity among the rails. The closing was heavy. Sales approximated 950,000 shares.

SOLDIER BONUS BEFORE SENATE

After Williams Had Blocked Introduction McCumber Succeeded in Second Attempt.

UNDERWOOD URGES DELAY

Wants Measure to go Over Until After November Elections in Order to Get Expression of People.

Washington, June 9.—The Soldiers' Bonus Bill was formally presented last night to the Senate after a first effort by Chairman McCumber of the Finance Committee to report it at the opening of the session had been blocked by Senator Williams, Democrat, of Mississippi.

Because of the parliamentary procedure under which the Senate was operating, unanimous consent was necessary to present the bill and the report, which earlier in the day had been made public by Senator McCumber. Senator Williams, a member of the Finance Committee, and an opponent of the legislation, refused such consent.

Paid War Profiteers
Asserting that Congress had paid the claims against the Government of "war in profiteers" and that every time an effort was made to pay compensation to the soldier there was objection, Senator Ashurst (Democrat) of Arizona urged Senator McCumber to move that the bill be received.

Senator McCumber explained that he could not offer such a motion because there was a gentlemen's agreement that the tariff bill would not be laid aside for controversial measures without advance notice being given.

Arising to present the bill and the accompanying committee report, Senator McCumber said that after consultation with members on both sides of the chamber he would ask later to lay aside the tariff bill and take up the bonus measure.

Gladd To See Delay
Announcing his opposition to the bonus measure, Senator Underwood of Alabama, the Democratic leader, said he would be "very glad" if the bill went over until after the November elections, so the American people could voice their sentiment with regard to the measure.

"You are bringing before the Senate," he said, "a bill that will put a charge of four to seven billion of dollars on the American taxpayers."

Senator Underwood asserted that the bill would not take effect until next year in any event, and that if it were passed at this time the only effect would be political.

Senator Underwood said he realized that he did not speak for the minority on the bonus question while Senator Robinson, Democrat, Arkansas, told the Senate that he did not want the impression to go out that the objection raised by Senator Williams represented the sentiment of the Democratic side of the chamber. The Arkansas Senator added that the bonus question should be settled so the veterans would know just what to expect. He also gave it as his opinion that it would have been better for the business interests of the country if the matter had been disposed of a year ago.

GREAT PRECAUTIONS TAKEN

Royal Bridal Couple Closely Watched By Military.

Belgrade, June 9.—Elaborate precautions were taken to guard King Alexander and Princess Marie of Rumania during their wedding festivities yesterday. The entire route of the bridal party from the palace to the cathedral was lined with double rows of soldiers and gendarmes with loaded rifles and fixed bayonets. One line of the troops faced outward and the other inward. Their orders were to shoot immediately if it is understood if they noticed any suspicious movement among the spectators. Residents of the city living along the streets through which the procession passed were forbidden to open their windows without special police permission.

No one was allowed to carry a camera, satchel or other objects without written permission.

The royal wedding has caused all Jugo-Slavia to go marriage mad. All the eligible swains and maidens of the picturesque peasant country seem to want to get married this week, and the churches are flooded with applications for licenses.

All Serbian traditions and superstitions were scrupulously observed yesterday at the marriage of King Alexander and Princess Marie, of Rumania, in Belgrade. Among the princess's presents was a flock of rams with golden horns from Albanian admirers.

The fellow who blows his own horn needs no instruction. He is his own footer.

LABOR BOARD TO PREVENT STRIKES

President of Building Trades Department Proposes Plan. Agitators Cause of Trouble.

Cincinnati, Ohio, June 9.—Creation of a national board of labor union officials, vesting with it all responsibility for strikes in the building trades industry, was suggested yesterday by John H. Donlin, president of the Building Trades Department of the American Federation of Labor, at the department's annual meeting here.

"The whole nation," said Mr. Donlin in his annual report, "is tired of strikes and lockouts and disgusted with such institutions that make lockouts and strikes possible. The only way to minimize them is to minimize such authority as can order a strike or lockout. Those responsible for strikes in cities are always in the minority."

A nation-wide campaign for home-building was suggested by Mr. Donlin, who also urged that international unions should exercise authority over local unions and favored the building trades workmen joining, with other basic units of the building industry, in an organization created under the supervision of some governmental department.

"The building industry," said Mr. Donlin, "in its every phase, from the banker who furnishes the money making possible the materialization of the project down to the laborer, has lost the confidence and respect of the public. The ruling principle and object of our government must be to restore and maintain this confidence and respect."

Referring to labor troubles generally in the building industry, Mr. Donlin said agitators are the cause of mistakes being made by local unions.

NO REAL BOY WANTS THIS CASH

Emporia, Kan., June 9.—A boy who would take a stray dog to the city pound to be killed for a quarter is too mean to live himself, declares William Allen White, author and editor, in a statement in his paper, the Emporia Gazette. White's protest in behalf of the dogs was evoked by an offer of 25 cents a head for dogs brought to the city pound by boys.

"What's the matter with this city administration, anyhow?" inquired the Kansas editor. "Were they never boys? Here they are advertising to give boys 25 cents for each stray dog brought into the city pound to be killed. Doesn't the city administration know that the boy who would deliberately bring a stray dog to the city pound to be killed for two bits, ought to be killed himself? Don't they know that boys are not so hard-hearted. Don't they know that the average boy would rather earn two bits mowing a lawn with a straight string of boys marching by him to the swimming hole, rather than see a stray dog killed?"

"The advertisement had in it the meanest inference about Emporia boys that ever has been made. Think of the kind of a boy who valued a quarter above the life of a dog—a stray dog on earth."

GASING PEACH TREE BORERS

Gasing peach tree borers has become a favorite sport of peach tree growers—it is cheaper and more effective than worming by hand.

There are several compounds on the market reputed to be just as good as paradichlorobenzene for this work. The Bureau of Plant Industry, has found that some of these compounds are worthless, therefore they recommend only the pure paradichlorobenzene crystals. Do not be deceived by the cheaper price of the compounds for they will be more expensive in the end.

ASK DISMISSAL OF COMPLAINT

Bethlehem And Lackawanna Steel Companies File Answer to Charges.

CHALLENGE JURISDICTION

Companies Assure Justice Department They Desire to Furnish all the Facts. Daugherty Pledges Speed.

Washington, June 9.—Denying that the merger of the Bethlehem Steel Corporation and the Lackawanna Steel Company will operate to restrain trade, the two companies asked the Federal Trade Commission yesterday to dismiss the complaint issued against the consolidation by the Commission on June 3.

Coincident with the filing of answers to the complaints by the two corporations, Carl D. De Gersdorff, their counsel, called at the Department of Justice and assured Attorney General Daugherty the companies were anxious to place immediately at his disposal all facts regarding the proposed merger. Delay would seriously handicap the company, he asserted, asking that the investigation be pushed forward as speedily as possible.

Mr. Daugherty was understood to have informed Mr. De Gersdorff that the department's investigation would be expedited.

Filed Separate Answers
Each company filed a separate answer to the Commission's complaint, denying the authority or jurisdiction of the Commission "over the transaction alleged in the complaint."

In the Bethlehem reply, signed by R. E. McMath, secretary of the corporation, it was asserted that neither the Lackawanna Steel Company nor any of its subsidiaries was now engaged in competition with the Bethlehem Company nor any of its subsidiaries.

It was also asserted that the "carrying out of the agreement of May 16, 1922, and the operation by the respondent (Bethlehem), directly or through its subsidiaries of the properties of the Lackawanna Steel Company will not violate the provisions of any law of the United States."

The Bethlehem reply took issue with the Commission's figures concerning production of certain railroad accessories by the Lackawanna Company.

Some Charges Admitted
Both companies in their answers took up the Commission's complaint in detail and answered each allegation, admitting some charges and denying others, but reaching the conclusion that the merger would not in any manner run counter to existing statutes.

G. F. Downs, president of the Lackawanna Company, who signed the answer filed for his company, stated that his company "denies that the acquisition by the Bethlehem Steel Corporation of the physical properties of the Lackawanna Steel Company and of the Lackawanna Bridge Works Corporation and of the capital stock of the corporations described in the complaint * * * will suppress or eliminate any competition between the Bethlehem Corporation or any of its subsidiaries and the Lackawanna Company or any of its subsidiaries" since the Lackawanna denies that any competition has heretofore or now exists between them * * * within the meaning of the word "competition."

FARMER ENDS HIS LIFE

Peter Dietz Used Flobert Rifle to Commit Deed.

Peter Dietz, 37 years old, a tenant farmer on the farm of John C. Miller, in Springettsbury township, York county, Thursday morning shot himself in the head with a 32 calibre Flobert rifle. He died a short time later. He leaves his wife and two sons, Harry and Emory.

Dietz prepared a bed with a heavy coat and a pillow on the floor of his home, about three miles east of York, laid on the floor, placed the rifle in his mouth and started the trigger with his foot. The wound was not a large one, Dietz had been ailing for some time, worrying over financial reverses.

Shortly before noon Sarah Rinley, a hired girl at the Dietz home, heard the report of a shot. She informed Mrs. Dietz and together they went into the room from which it appeared the noise had come. There they found Dietz lying on the floor with the rifle at his side. Blood was streaming from his mouth and there was a hole on the left side of his head close to the temple.

Mrs. Dietz gave him what aid she could and sent a hurry call for a doctor. When Dr. C. H. Venus got to the house Dietz was dead. He made no examination other than to determine that efforts to save his life were of no use, and then reported the case to Coroner Frank V. McConkey, who issued the necessary death certificate.

ASSENT UNLIKELY TO RAIL STRIKE

Rail Labor Board Has Not Yet Reduced Wages of Members. Need United Front.

Cincinnati, June 9.—While union heads generally refrained from commenting on the probability of a walk-out as the result of the release of strike ballots to 400,000 railway shopmen, some leaders expressed the belief that, although there were grounds for a strike in the railroad industry, it would not be sanctioned unless all of the 16 brotherhoods and organizations presented a united front.

Doubt was expressed that the four transportation brotherhoods would join in such a movement, in view of the fact that their members' wages had not been cut by the Railroad Labor Board.

Time For Action.
Significance, however, was accorded a letter sent to all locals following release of the ballots by the executive council of the Federated Shop Crafts, in which it was declared:

"This is a time for action and not for talk and unnecessary delay." Return of all ballots before June 25 was urged, "thus making it possible to advise the membership before July 1."

The letter was regarded in some quarters as a certain forecast of a walkout on July 1 if a strike was favored by the vote of the membership.

Daily sessions are being held by the Shop Crafts Executive Council, preliminary to the American Federation of Labor convention, which begins next Monday.

Predict Full Suspension.

Chicago, June 9.—Railroad unions continued preparations yesterday for their strike vote, with leaders predicting that the referendum would be heavily in favor of a suspension of work in protest against wage reductions made by the Railroad Labor Board, despite statements by several railroad presidents that strike sentiment was confined largely to union leaders and that there was good reason to doubt whether the sentiment would saturate the nation's railway workers.

CHERRIES ON APPLE TREE

Georgetown, Del., June 9.—A tree that produced apples last year and is filled with cherries this year, is the unusual sight on the William Bagley farm, near Onancock, where crowds have been viewing the phenomenon. The tree was one of several purchased from a nursery, and was bought for an apple tree. In every appearance it is an apple tree. Last year it bore for the first time three fine apples. This year the tree is filled with cherries and not a sign of an apple. No one has yet been able to explain its strange conduct.

ROW IN SENATE OVER TARIFF

(By Associated Press)
Washington, June 9.—There was a sharp clash in Senate today between Senator Simmons, of North Carolina, Democratic leader in the tariff debate, and Senator Gooding, of Idaho, chairman of the Republican Agriculture bloc, over the tariff duties on farm products.

A charge by Simmons that many of the rates on farm products never got into the tariff bill but were surrendered on the part of proclaimed friends of the farmers to higher duties on manufactured products, was denied by Senator Gooding. "Oh, the Senator has denied that before" returned Senator Simmons, "but a denial does not prove anything."

MANY JUNIOR HIGH SCHOOLS OPENED

Report of State Department Shows That Fifty Four Are Now Being Organized.

The following report, furnished by Department of Public Instruction of this state, shows the rapid development being made in the institution of Junior High Schools, both in the city and rural school districts. The report of the department follows:

A striking evidence of how effectively education is functioning in Pennsylvania is furnished by the Department of Public Instruction through the report of the Director of Junior High Schools. The development of these schools has been rather remarkable and shows that in this field, as in so many others, Pennsylvania is leading the way. The report shows that there are 52 such schools in successful operation with an attendance of 30,935 divided as follows:

District	No.	No. of Students
City	25	26,600
Borough	13	2,550
Rural	14	1,785

In addition, 54 schools are in process of organization and will be opened next year under the following distribution:

District	No.	No. of Students
City	12	16,500
Borough	21	6,675
Rural	21	3,755

From these figures it will be seen that next year there will be 37 Junior High schools in operation in cities, 34 in boroughs and 35 in rural communities, having a total enrollment of about 60,000.

A most interesting feature of this report is the fact that the rural communities have more such schools than the boroughs and almost as many as the cities. The report further states that the broader field of experience which these schools provide is keeping a larger number of boys and girls in school. In districts where records have been kept, officials report that 35 to 40 per cent. more students have continued in attendance through the agency of the Junior High school.

Among the distinctive activities generally prevailing in these schools are student government and club organization. Unique features, evidence of initiative and modern pedagogical practice are found in almost all.

The ideal of the Department of Public Instruction is the 6-3-3 plan. That this is making rapid advances is seen in the numerous building programs now in operation throughout the state. Of the bond issues carried at the recent election nearly all had provided for Junior High Schools.

RECEIVE SMALL SALARIES

Atlantic City, N. J., June 9.—Rev. J. C. Scouller, of Philadelphia, secretary of ministerial relief of the United Presbyterian church, addressing the conference of church secretaries of ministerial relief and pensions, declared that 50,000 ministers in the United States are receiving less than $800 a year.

The conference is for the purpose of devising an adequate pension system for Protestant ministers.

The present day lack of ministers is due in a large measure to the inadequate compensation and pensions, said Dr. Scouller. He declared that ministers' wives in many instances were forced to work to assist their husbands in making both ends meet.

Hannah was released on $250 bail. Hannah is in a hospital, his jaw fractured.

Hannah also suffered a lacerated tongue, discolored eyes and other injuries. No report of the cause of the fight was given out.

REVENUE FROM LICENSES

Between $20,000 And $30,000 a Week Received by State.

Pennsylvania's automobile registration is growing by leaps and bounds and it is likely in a short time the number of pneumatic tired cars licensed will be 100,000 ahead of what it was at this time last year. The registration has been going on rapidly and the revenue received runs from $20,000 to $30,000 a week. There has also been quite a noticeable increase in the registration of trucks.

Through activity of State policemen and local officers, the number of chipped tags being turned in for new ones is increasing and 26,000 at least have been replaced.

CHERRY APHID

When the cherry leaves curl up and many black aphids or plant lice are found inside the growth of the tree is checked and next year's crop reduced. To overcome this spray the cherry trees with a tobacco extract containing 40 per cent nicotine sulphate, diluting it one part to 600 parts of water and to each 50 gallons of the diluted material add two pounds of laundry soap, dissolving it first, which acts as a sticker and a spreader. For further particulars on the control of insect pests and plant diseases of farm, garden and orchard crops, write to the Bureau of Plant Industry, Department of Agriculture, Harrisburg.

DAUGHERTY WILL STICK

Says He Wouldn't Take Million For Job as Attorney General.

Washington, D. C., June 9.—Attorney General Daugherty called on President Harding yesterday about a matter of official detail, and was asked when he came out for his view upon various reports that he would resign office.

"You can say," he told newspaper men, "that there never was a time when I would not have given 30 cents to get the office of Attorney General, but that I wouldn't take a million dollars for it now."

POTATO SPRAYING PAYS

The potato beetle and the flea beetle are already damaging potato plants. This damage can be controlled by spraying with Bordeaux mixture containing 4 pounds of lime, 4 pounds of blue stone in 50 gallons of water and one and one-half pounds of powdered arsenate of lead. The Bordeaux mixture is an effective preventive against the flea beetle and blight provided both upper and lower leaves are covered. Directions for mixing materials and when to apply will be sent to those applying to the Bureau of Plant Industry, Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture, Harrisburg.

FAIR—BROWN

Miss Martha E. Brown, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Brown, of near Square Corner, and James D. Fair, son of Irwin Fair, New Chester, were united in marriage Tuesday evening at eight o'clock at the First Lutheran parsonage, New Oxford. The ceremony was performed by the pastor, the Rev. W. M. Allison. The newly-wedded couple will make their home for the present with the bridegroom's father and will engage in farming.

The MARDI GRAS MYSTERY

Gramont had no difficulty in locating the Ledanois land, and he found that it was by no means in the swamp. A part of it, lying closer to Houma, had been sold and was now included in the new oil district; it was this portion which Joseph Maillard had sold off.

The remainder, and the largest portion, lay north of Paradis and ran along the west bank of the bayou for half a mile. A long-abandoned farm, it was high ground, with the timber well cleared off and excellently located; but tenants were hard to get and shiftless when obtained, so that the place had not been farmed for the last five years or more. After getting these facts, Gramont consulted with Hammond.

"We'd better buy some grub here in town and arrange to stay a couple of nights on the farm, if necessary," he said. "There are some buildings there, so we'll find shelter. Along the bayou are summer cottages—I believe some of them rather pretentious places—and we ought to find the road pretty decent. It's only three or four miles out of town."

With some provisions piled in the car, they set forth. The road wound along the bayou side, past ancient Cajun farms and the squat homes of fishermen. Here and there had been placed camps and summer cottages, nestled amid groups of huge oaks and cypress, whose fronds of silver-gray moss hung in drooping clusters like pale and ghostly shrouds.

Watching the road closely, Gramont suddenly found the landmarks that had been described to him, and ordered Hammond to stop and turn in at a gap in the fence which had once been an entrance gate.

"Here we are! Those are the buildings off to the right. Whew! I should say it had been abandoned! Nothing much left but ruins. Go ahead!"

Before them, as they drove in from the road by a grass-covered drive, showed a house, shed, and barn amid a cluster of towering trees. Indeed, trees were everywhere about the farm, which had grown up in a regular sapling forest. The buildings were in a ruinous state—clapboards hanging loosely, roofs dotted by gaping holes, doors and windows long since gone.

Leaving the car, Gramont, followed by the chauffeur, went to the front doorway and surveyed the wreckage inside.

"What do you say, Hammond? Think we can stop here, or go back to the hotel? It's not much of a run to town."

Hammond pointed to a wide fireplace facing them.

"I can get this shack cleaned out in about half an hour—this one room, anyhow. When we get a fire going in there, and board up the windows and doors, we ought to be comfortable enough. But suit yourself, cap'n! It's your funeral."

Gramont laughed. "All right. Go ahead and clean up, then, and if rain

"Think We Can Stop Here, or Go Back to the Hotel?"

comes down we can camp here. Be sure and look for snakes and vermin. The floor seems sound, and if there's plenty of moss on the trees, we can make up comfortable beds. Too bad you're not a fisherman, or we might get a fresh fish out of the bayou."

"I got some tackle in town," and Hammond grinned widely.

"Good work! Then make yourself at home and go to it. We've most of the afternoon before us."

Gramont left the house, and headed down toward the bayou shore. He took a letter from his pocket, opened it, and glanced over it anew. It was an old letter, one written him nearly two years previously by Lucie Ledanois. It had been written merely in the endeavor to distract the thoughts of a wounded soldier, to bring his mind to Louisiana, away from the stricken fields of France. In the letter Lucie had described some of the more interesting features of Bayou Terrebonne—the oyster and shrimp fleets, the Chinese and Filipino villages along the gulf, the far-spreading cypress swamps; the bubbling fountains, natural curiosities, that broke up through the streams and bayous of the whole wide parish—fountains that were caused by gas seeping up from the earth's interior, and breaking through.

Gramont knew that plans were already afoot to tap this field of natural gas and pipe it to New Orleans. Oil had been found, too, and all the state was now oil-mad. Fortunes were being made daily, and other fortunes were being lost daily by those who dealt with oil stocks instead of with oil.

"Those gas fountains did the work!" reflected Gramont. "And according to this letter there's one of those fountains here in the bayou, close to her property. Just opposite the dock," she says. The first thing is to find the dock, then the fountain. After that, we'll decide if it's true mineral gas. If it is, then the work's done—for I'll sure take a chance on finding oil near it!"

Gramont came to the bayou and began searching his way along the thick and high fringe of bushes and saplings that girded the water's edge. Presently he came upon the ruined evidences of what had once been a small boat shed. Not far from this he found the dock referred to in the letter; nothing was left of it except a few spiles protruding from the surface of the water. But he had no need to look farther. Directly before him, he saw that which he was seeking.

A dozen feet out from shore the water was rising and falling in a continuous dome or fountain of highly charged bubbles that rose a foot above the surface. Gramont stared at it, motionless. He watched it for a space—then, abruptly, he started. It was a violent start, a start of sheer amazement and incredulity.

He leaned forward, staring no longer at the gas dome, but at the water closer inshore. For a moment he thought that his senses had deceived him, then he saw that the thing was there indeed, there beyond any doubt—a very faint trace of iridescent light that played over the surface of the water.

"It can't be possible!" he muttered, bending farther over. "Such a thing happens too rarely!"

His heart pounded violently; excitement sent the blood rushing to his brain in blinding swirls. He was gripped by the gold fever that comes upon a man when he makes the astounding discovery of untold wealth lying at his feet, passed over and disregarded by other and less-discerning men for days and years!

It was oil, no question about it. An extremely slight quantity, true; so slight a quantity that there was no film on the water, no discernible taste to the water. Gramont brought it to his mouth and rose, shaking his head. Where did it come from? It had no connection with the gas bubbles—at least, it did not come from the dome of water and gas. How long he stood there staring Gramont did not know. His brain was afire with the possibilities.

At length he stirred into action and started up the bayou bank, from time to time halting to search the water below him, to make sure that he could still discern the faint iridescence.

He followed it rod by rod, and found that it rapidly increased in strength. It must come from some very tiny surface seepage close at hand, that was lost in the bayou almost as rapidly as it came from the earth's depths. Only accidentally would a man see it—not unless he were searching the water close to the bank, and even then only by the grace of chance.

Suddenly Gramont saw that he had lost the sign. He halted. No, not lost, either! Just ahead of him was a patch of reeds, and a recession of the shore. He advanced again. Inside the reeds he found the oily smear, still so faint that he could only detect it at certain angles. Glancing up, he could see a fence at a little distance, evidently the boundary fence of the Ledanois land; the bushes and trees thinned out here, and on ahead was cleared ground. He saw, through the bushes, glimpses of buildings.

Violent disappointment seized him. Was he to lose this discovery, after all? Was he to find that the seepage came from ground belonging to some one else? No—he stepped back hastily, barely in time to avoid stumbling into a tiny trickle of water, a rivulet that ran down into the bayou, a tributary so insignificant that it was invisible ten feet distant! And on the surface a faint iridescence.

Excitement rising anew within him,

Gramont turned and followed this rivulet, his eyes aflame with eagerness. It led him for twenty feet, and ceased abruptly, in a bubbling spring that welled from a patch of low tree-inclosed land. Gramont felt his feet sinking in grass, and saw that there was a dip in the ground hereabouts, a swampy little section all to itself. He picked a dry spot and lay down on his face, searching the water with his eyes.

Moment after moment he lay there, watching. Presently he found the slight trickle of oil again—a trickle so faint and slim that even here, on the surface of the tiny rivulet, it could be discerned only with great difficulty. A very thin seepage, concluded Gramont; a thin oil, of course. So faint a little thing, to mean so much!

It came from the Ledanois land, no doubt of it. What did that matter, though? His eyes widened with flaming thoughts as he gazed down at the slender thread of water. No matter at all where this came from—the main point was proven by it! There was oil here for the finding, oil down in the thousands of feet below, oil so thick and abundant that it forced itself up through the earth fissures to find an outlet!

FIRST TIES HIGH FOR FIRST PLACE

Second Ward Batters Fell Before Brady Armor's Onslaught.

The First Ward tied high school for first place in the Ward League by defeating the Second Ward, Thursday evening, by a 5-0 score. The Second Ward was never dangerous and First took the game with ease. The First Ward developed a hitting streak after the initial inning and marked up a hit against Cromer every inning thereafter. Brady Armor left the Second Ward have but two hits during the game.

The First Ward, in the third inning, put the game on ice. Deardoff hit a single and stole second. Roth got on first on error and Deardoff advanced to third. H. Armor advanced Roth to third and brought Deardoff home on a single. "Ducky" Armor stole second and went to third on Woodward's hit. Woodward was brought home by two sacrifice hits by Oyler and Weiser. "Buck" Armor fled out to center. The first two men up for the Second Ward struck out. Shatzer was hit by the pitcher and advanced to second or Thompson's hit which was the first hit of the game for the Second Ward. Both men died on base when McDonne struck out.

In the last inning the First Ward scored again. "Duck" Armor was thrown out at first. Sheely got off first and second on errors. Advanced to third on Sowers' single and came home on Deardoff's single. Phil and Armor retired ending the batting for the First Ward. The Second Ward retired in regular fashion, two retiring on strikes and the other throw out at first.

(Medical Advertising) PILES

Can't Be Cured From The Outside
External treatments seldom cure Piles.

Nor do surgical operations.
The cause is inside—bad circulation. The blood is stagnant, the veins flabby.

The bowel walls are weak, the parts almost dead.
To quickly and safely rid yourself of piles you must free the circulation—send a fresh current through the stagnant pools. Internal treatment is the one safe method.

J. S. Leonhardt, M. D., set at work some years ago to find a real internal Pile remedy. He succeeded. He named his prescription HEM-ROID and tried it in 1000 cases before he was satisfied. Now HEM-ROID is sold by druggists everywhere under guarantee. It's easy to take, and can always be found at Peoples Drug Store, who will gladly refund the purchase price to any dissatisfied customer.

DOES BUSINESS ON OTHER MAN'S CASH

Capital of the Mail Order House Is Furnished by Its Customers.

WORKS ALWAYS ON 'VELVET'

Buyers Supply Money to Support Enterprises Competing With Those in Which They Are Interested.

(Copyright.)
It is a mighty nice thing to be able to do business on the other fellow's money, but there are few people who can do it. Probably the only business men who, as a class, are able to do this, are the mail order men in the big cities.

Did you ever stop to think—you, who have ordered goods from a mail order house and there are probably few who have not done that at some time or other—that you are supplying the cash upon which the mail order man is doing business? You are well aware of the fact that your cash must go with your order if you expect to receive the goods, but have you ever stopped to think what that means? Do you realize that you are supplying the capital for a business which is running in direct competition with your home merchants, upon whose prosperity you and your fellow townsmen are dependent for a livelihood?

The majority of mail order houses do not carry large stocks of goods. They do not have to. When the mail order man gets your order, accompanied by the cash, of course, he can take a part of your money and go to the manufacturer or the wholesaler and buy the article that is wanted. The rest of the money he can put down in his pocket after paying his operating costs, which are light when compared with those of the merchant who must carry a large stock of goods to meet the demands made upon him.

In Class by Themselves.

There is absolutely no other class of men who do business on the capital furnished by their customers. Even the retail store which sells for cash only cannot do this for he must carry a large stock and in most cases must pay cash for it in order to get prices that will enable him to make lower prices to his customers than can be made by the merchant who gives credit to his customers.

The mail order man doesn't need to have any of his own capital invested

LINCOLN TRUST COMPANY

In his business—or any large amount of it, at least, in proportion to the volume of the business which he does. He does not have to pay interest to the banks on money borrowed to help him finance his business. The mail order man figures that about one-half of the amount he receives on any order goes to the wholesaler or manufacturer in payment for the goods ordered. Of the remainder a part goes for postage, printing, maintenance of office and plant, insurance, etc. What is left, which is by no means an insignificant part of every dollar received, goes into dividends to stockholders in the mail order corporation. All this has been done without any capital other than that which may be required to pay office expenses.

Suppose, for a minute, that you did business with the local merchants on the same plan. Suppose that they did not carry any goods in stock, that when you wanted to buy something you should go to one of your home merchants, look in his catalogue and pick out an article that seemed to be similar to the one that you wanted, hand over the price as shown by the catalogue and tell him to order it for you. The merchant would take your money and you would wait for your goods until they arrived from a distant city.

Not So Anxious.

But the people who make up any community are not nearly as anxious to furnish capital to the home merchant—the man who helps "make" the town—as they are to the mail order man in the far distant city, who does nothing and cares nothing for the people who furnish him the money on which to do business. They insist that the home merchant shall carry a large stock of goods from which they can select what they wish, when they think it is to their interest to buy from him. They insist that he shall stand back of the goods he sells and make good any defect that may appear in them. They insist that he shall sell them what they wish and wait for the money until they get ready to pay it. They insist that he shall sell goods at the same prices or lower prices than the mail order houses charge for goods of poorer quality. And finally, they insist that the home merchant shall furnish the large amount of capital that is required to conduct a business on this plan.

The mail order buyer may say that he has the right to spend his money anywhere he pleases and he has, legally. But he probably has never stopped to reflect on the fact that he is supplying the capital for the operation of a concern which is in direct competition with enterprises in which he is directly interested, for every man, woman and child in a town is directly interested in the success of the business enterprises in that town. If these business enterprises are not prosperous, the town cannot be prosperous. To supply capital to your competitor is not very good business.

TRAP THE MILLIPEDES

Many reports of damage by millipedes to growing crops are received by the Bureau of Plant Industry, Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture. Ordinarily they feed upon decaying vegetable matter, but they also, when forced to, will feed upon growing plants in the garden. The only remedy that can be suggested is to trap them under boards laid on the ground. Visit these traps frequently, killing those found.

RHEUMATISM

Torturing Pains and Swollen Joints Vanish When Rheuma is Used or Money Refunded.

If you want relief in two days, swift, gratifying relief, take one tea-spoonful of Rheuma once a day.

If you want to dissolve the uric acid poison in your body and drive it out through the natural channels so that you will be free from rheumatism, get a bottle of Rheuma from your druggist at once.

Rheumatism is a powerful disease strongly entrenched in joints and muscles. In order to conquer it a powerful enemy must be sent against it. Rheuma is the enemy of rheumatism—an enemy that must conquer it every instance or your money will be refunded.

Rheuma contains no narcotics—is absolutely harmless, and thoroughly reliable because it is the one remedy that has relieved the agonizing pains of rheumatic sufferers who thought nothing would give relief. It should do as much for you. Peoples Drug Store will supply on the no-cure-no-pay plan.

Stephens Sailer Six

The Stephens Sailer Six has made great gains in popularity throughout the country during the last few years. The demand for the car is constantly growing. There has been a great increase this season.

R. W. Lea, vice-president in charge of the Stephens Motor Car Company expresses his confidence in this statement.

"No automobile company is now more firmly established, and our whole organization from factory to dealer is enthusiastic. We are signaling the reorganization with a price cut that averages $130 per car for all models. This price places the Stephens automobile in a class by itself and the reception of our car in all parts of the country assures us a great jump in business and popularity."

The new price for the Stephens Sailer Six touring car is $1595. This is a further reduction of $150 on top of a reduction of $655 already made—or a total reduction in price of $805 in the past few months.

This reduction of $805 since last July marks an important readjustment of values among motor cars of high grade construction and advanced engineering.

The new factory prices for Stephens cars are as follows:
Two-passenger roadster $1575
Four-passenger touring $1595
Six-passenger touring $1625
Enclosed touring $2000
7-passenger Sedan $2550
4-passenger coupe $2450

Coincident with the startling price reduction is the further announcement of 31 improvements and refinements in the car.

The importance of these 31 improvements can best be judged by comparisons with features similar to them which heretofore have been to motor cars in the $3,000 price class.

The increased sales-volume and consequent increased production this year permit many marked economies and the public shares in these savings by the new low price of the Stephens Sailer Six.

Public demand for something more than mere motion in any automobile is dramatically reflected in the great increase in the Stephens sales since the price was reduced an additional $150, making a total reduction of $805 in the past few months. This demand is all the more impressive because of the acknowledged rank of the Stephens car as the most advanced six-cylinder car on the market.

Further interest has been focused on the Stephens Sailer Six because of its remarkable showing in the Los Angeles-Yosemite Valley run held on May 20th. In 380 miles of travel through mud and rain in mountain country climbing to elevations of 6100 feet, the Stephens won the honors in its quality and weight class.

The Stephens bettered by five ton miles the record it established in 1919 when it won sweepstakes and the class prize in this greatest of economy contests. The Stephens Sailer Six this year averaged within a fraction of 23 miles to the gallon.

This is regarded as convincing proof of the extraordinary efficiency and economy of the 57 horse power motor now in the sixth successive year of its development at the Stephens Motor Works.

be passed by the greatest number of Marines, who will be encamped here from June 26 to July 6. With their camp along Confederate avenue, it is believed the majority will come to town by way of Springs avenue or West Middle street.

The shows required a lot 400 feet long by 200 feet wide on which to exhibit and erect their riding devices. Any one of the lots up for discussion would be large enough for this purpose.

According to Mr. Stanley, the show, which travels by rail in a train of twenty five cars, would not be able to come to Gettysburg and make money were it not for the Marine encampment to be located here and the crowds of people the manoeuvres of the "sea soldiers" will bring to Gettysburg.

The Legion under its contract with the Dufour shows must furnish 17 ticket takers, one for each show and riding device. It was mentioned at the meeting that Boy Scouts might be procured for a consideration for the two-week period. The Legion will also elect a manager, whose duty it will be to see that everything is in readiness for the arrival of the show and have general supervision during its stay.

in institutions as near their former homes as possible to facilitate the visiting of friends. The system will be elastic enough to permit shifting to various points.

"Thirty per cent of all insane persons recover their faculties under proper treatment," the speaker stated and went on to explain that this treatment is not possible in county asylums.

The program of the Public Welfare Department calls for the organization of County Welfare Boards. Members will represent respectively the Poor Directors, the County Commissioners, the County Superintendent of Schools, the County Health Officer and a representative of the Mothers' Association Fund. Five other members will be elected by these six and approved by the department. The size of the body will be elastic and will vary with existing conditions. Each public welfare organization will be represented and any desirable person can be recommended for membership.

Dr. Baldy further suggested the formation of a mental clinic in each town and city. Such a body would consist of three persons, a physician, a psychologist and a social worker.

FAKE CANNING COMPOUNDS

Agents of the Bureau of Foods of the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture have discovered wholesale attempts to victimize the housewives of the state through the sale of so called canning and preserving compounds.

A plot was recently uncovered in Philadelphia through which a smooth swindler was selling pure water and a trace of sugar for sixty cents a bottle containing less than four ounces. The swindler was arrested and has since jumped his bail bond.

Director James Foust of the Bureau of Foods urges housewives to refuse to purchase these so called canning compounds from agents that go from door to door. There are no canning compounds that are not composed of deleterious chemicals or are fakes.

The greatest spectacle the world has ever seen so far surpasses any previous effort of screen productions that comparison is impossible.

It required two years to produce, and cost $3,000,000.

There are 25,000 people in the cast headed by Rita Jolivet and the greatest screen and stage stars of all Europe.

Settings of stone and marble for the vast scenes occupied a tract of 100,000 square meters and were all designed by Armando Brasini, architect of the Vatican.

Such a staging and such a tremendous production has exhausted the adjectives of critics in the cities where it has been given an advance showing. "Marvel of marvels," says the New York World; "Gorgeous beyond description," declares the Telegraph; "A new film sensation," says the Evening Mail; "Immensity and splendor appalling," the Evening Post; "Griffith out-Griffith," declares the Detroit Free Press; "of almost unbelievable magnitude and surpassing beauty," declares the Cleveland Plain Dealer; "Gorgeous too weak a word," says the Pittsburgh Chronicle-Telegraph; "Surpasses any that has ever been shown," Boston Globe; "A smashing spectacle," the Chicago Tribune's Verdict.

Against this setting is the world's greatest love story—of a woman who gave power, riches, everything—even loosening a horde of lions on her helpless subjects to save the man she loved.

Its palaces and hippodrome would alone be a feast for the eye; its numbers make all past motion picture efforts seem weak; its cost staggers; its dramatic power grips the heart while its splendors amaze the eye.

If you miss Theodora you may as well stop going to see motion pictures.
